BIG TRANSPORT TOPPLES OVER.

CARRIES A DRY DOCK AND MANY CARPENTERS DOWN WITH IT.

The Ingalls Slips from Her Blocks in the Dry Dock at the Erie Basin, and Ship and Dock Go Down in Fifty Feet of Water.

New York, June 14.—While the United States transport Ingalls was in the balance dry dock at the Erie basin, South Brooklyn, this afternoon, where she was about to undergo extensive repairs, she suddenly slipped from the blocks and capsized. One man is known to have been killed and many injured. There was about 240 carpenters, machinists and other laborers at work on the vessel and dock at the time. It is supposed that the vessel was thrown from an even keel by a ballast improperly placed, or by the shifting of the blocks on which she rested, causing her to list to starboard, driving the shoring beams through the rotten walls of the old-fashioned dry dock in which she was cradled. Besides the mechanics and other workmen which crowded the vessel and dock, preparing her for a voyage to Manila, there were supposed to have been about 30 Italian laborers in the hold of the ship employed in shifting the iron ballast.

While the workmen were trying to escape, the dock itself over balanced by the weight of the ship, turned on its side and sank in 50 feet of water. A number of men were borne down into the water and jammed under and beneath the wreckage which rose to the surface. How many were caught could not be learned to night. Martin Anderson, a painter, was caught under the descending side of the ship and killed. Others were dragged out of the water badly injured or half drowned, and hurried to the hospitals. Added to the horror of tonight was the uncertainty of the fate of the men in the vessel's hold. Some managed to get to the deck and leap into the water as the vessel was sinking, but it is feared that the majority were less fortunate.

The Ingalls went into the dry dock at 11:30 this morning, and about $30,000 was to have been expended on her repairs. The lock in which she was placed was a very old one, having been constructed over 50 years ago. An effort was made to close the gate at the time of the accident, but was unsuccessful. No one could be found who could give any estimate of the amount of damage the disaster had entailed.

In Memoriam.

Mrs. Marks, who died at Proximity, was sick several week and she bore her sickness with all the patience a saint of God could until the evening of June 8, just as the sun was going over the western hills the death angel came and found a soul that was ready to go, and bore her to that heavenly home where all is joy and love and parting will be no more. She often expressed herself as being ready to meet Jesus if he should come in the clouds of glory or call for her. She was a true saint of God, and I have heard this saint of God often testify to the saving and sanctifying power of God. She professed it and lived it. How blessed are they that die in the Lord. She was a good mother and leaves several children to mourn her loss. May God lead them in the path she has trod until they go where she is, in the city of God.

She was a sister of the sick and always ready to speak a word of comfort to the down hearted, to cheer them up, and there is no doubt but that her crown will shine with stars for those she has lead to God.

She was 49 years of age. It is earth's loss and heaven's gain.

May the turf ever be green on the spot where this saint is laid. May the pearly dew and the refreshing rain fall gently upon the sod, and the winds of Heaven breathe over it soft and low, while in Heaven she is at rest.

DISASTER IN NEW YORK HARBOR

FERRY BOAT SINKS WITH HUNDREDS OF PASSENGERS.

A Staten Island Boat Rammed by the Central Railroad's Ferry Boat Mauch Chunk at the Staten Island Slip—Between 800 and 1,200 People Were on the Staten Island Boat.

New York, June 14.—The wooden sidewheeler Northfield, which has been in the service of the Staten Island Ferry Company for the past 38 years, was rammed tonight by the steel-hulled propeller Mauch Chunk, used as a ferry boat by the Central Railroad of New Jersey. The collision occurred just off the Staten Island ferry slip at the foot of Whitehall street, and in less than 10 minutes after, the Northfield, which was crowded with passengers, sank at the outer end of the Spanish Line pier in the East River. The Mauch Chunk, which was badly damaged, landed the two dozen passengers which were aboard her. Over 100 passengers of the sunken Northfield were dragged out of the water by people along shore and the crews of the fleet of river tugs, which promptly responded to the ferry boat's call for help. A few of the Northfield's passengers were hurt in the accident and the police believe that some lives were lost. Capt. Daniel Gully, of the tug boat Mutual, who saw the ferry boats crash together, says that immediately after the collision between 25 and 30 passengers leaped into the water and that many of those perished. Captain Gully also declares that he is sure over 100 of the Northfield's passengers were drowned. The captains of other tug boats who were early on the scene, however, are inclined to think that the disaster was not so serious as regards loss of life. Thus far no dead bodies have been recovered.

The reason for such a difference of opinion as to the extent of the disaster is that the wildest excitement prevailed on the Northfield. The tug Mutual saved in all about 75 passengers from the Northfield, and the tugs Unity and Arrow saved between them 150 passengers. Two policemen of the Old Slip station claim to have rescued nearly thirty people between them. As soon as the crowd which had followed the sinking ferry boat along the riverfront were able to render any aid, the worked with a will and in many instances men sprang into the water to save life. The greatest service was rendered by the tug boats, which as soon as it was possible, circled around the Northfield and made a bridge to the Spanish Line pier and men and women clambered over the tugs to the shore. The swift running flood tide and the question of which boat had the right of way was the cause of the disaster. Captain Abram Johnson was in charge of the Northfield and Captain S. C. Griffin was in command of the Mauch Chunk. Each lays the blame for the collision on the other.

PETRIFIED APRICOT.

One on Exhibition in High Point Thought to be Over 100 Years Old.

Correspondence of The Telegram.

High Point, June 15.—Mr. A. J. Croker, late of the 29th volunteer infantry, United States army, and on duty in the Philippine Islands from November 2, 1899 to March 23, 1901, arrived at his home here last week. In his possession Mr. Croker has a valuable and interesting curiosity. It is a perfect specimen of a petrified apricot which was given to him by a Spanish lady at Catbalogan, province of Samar, Philippine Islands. One hundred and three years ago the lady's great grandfather had a orchard on the spot where the curiosity was found 23 years ago. The specimen though over 103 years old, looks just like it had been plucked from the tree, but is as heavy as lead itself. Mr. Croker declined an offer of $250 in gold for it, and the Smithsonian Institute says it is worth $600. Probable this institution will get the curiosity. Mr. Croker was with Gen Lawton when the latter was killed. He says that the opportunities to make money in the Philippines are many and that the climate is not so bad.

Mr. Croker has a good memory and relates in an interesting and profitable way all that came under his observation while in this part of Uncle

Addressing his students last week, Dr. Wyllie, the professor of medicine in Edinburg University, adduced an experience of his that is not without literary moral. He called one day too see a young man. As he was entering the patient's sister exclaimed: "Oh, it's all that horrid book!" Inquiry elicited the fact that the patient favorite reading was "Sherlock Holmes." The young man was in a very low state and his telltale arm was dotted with hypodermic punctures. His admiration for the most popular of paper detectives had betrayed him in the cocaine habit.

W. C. T. U. DEPARTMENT.

Temperance Work in Cuba.

Through the efforts of Mr. J. B. Barney, and others, the temperance work in Cuba is moving forward rapidly. Remarkably good work is being done, both among the United States soldiers and among the natives.

Numerous unions have been organized throughout Cuba, but the crowning event of Mrs. Barney's visit occurred March 29th, when a National Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Cuba was organized in Havana. Mrs. Barney was greeted by a large audience about evenly divided between Spanish and English speaking people.

Although much interest is manifested by the Cubans Mrs. Barney says there are many grave difficulties to overcome. These are due partly to the strained relations existing between the two countries, but more to the drinking habits of the visiting and resident Americans, which are a standing reproach. It is said that the words, "If we were like them you might well wish to pledge us," are only saved from being a taunt by the courtesy of our Cuban friends. Oh the pity of it. To think that the noble work of the American W. C. T. U. should be so hampered by their own countrymen.

It is always an encouraging sign when the pulpit arraigns the liquor traffic as one of the great evils of social and political life. We have a right to expect our clergy, Protestant and Catholic, to lead in the war of extermination against the greatest enemy of home and church. In a recent discourse, Archbishop Keane, of Iowa, denounced the traffic in vigorous terms. He said he was ashamed to see so many Catholics engaged in this business of destroying men's souls and earnestly appealed to them to abandon it. We trust the day is not far distant when from every pulpit in the land will come urgent appeals to all voters to abandon the system of legalizing and protecting the saloon business. Back of the saloon keeper is the citizen who makes that avocation not only possible, but politically powerful.

One of the largest manufacturing concerns in New Hampshire has recently inaugurated new and stringent rules in their factory. They have given orders to the superintendents of the various departments to immediately discharge any workman who brings liquor into the factory, who comes into the factory under the influence of liquor or goes out to drink some.

The firm has become so thoroughly convinced that drunkenness and business cannot go hand-in-hand without complete disaster to the latter that the movement was put in active operation.

Drowns While Crowd Looks.

New York Sun.

Twelve-year-old Patrick Smith of 15 Dunham place, Williamsburg, was drowned last evening in the East River, near the South Sixth street pier, within sight of many people. There is an eddy in the river at that point and the tide is swift. The boy was warned against bathing off the dock. He disregarded the warning and jumped in. On rising to the surface he tried to reach the dock. Suddenly he shouted for help and sank.

A companion of the boy, Henry Davis, who had been watching the drowning lad, jumped in to rescue him. Smith rose about forty feet from where he went down. Davis swam after him and seized him by the hair, but was unable to keep his grip. Davis was rescued with difficulty. Smith's body was not recovered.

The Forgiven Liar.

He told a lie—He heard her sigh
And left the crowd awhile
And called her pretty, and she looked
Up through her tears to smile.

Her heart that had been sad before
Was glad again and light;
She laughed all day and angels danced
Around her bed at night.

He told a lie; her face was plain,
He knew that it was so—
He lied and made her glad and God
Forgave the lie, I know!

The Skin AN INDEX TO THE BLOOD

Millions of little glands or tubes connect the blood with the skin, and through these small drain pipes perspiration passes out, carrying with it the impurities that are thrown off by the blood. Should the pores of the skin be entirely closed for even a brief space of time, and the poisonous matter forced back into the circulation, instant death would result. In addition to the sweat glands, the skin is provided with certain others which pour out upon it an oily substance, keeping the skin pliable and soft and protecting it from heat and cold. The blood and skin are so closely related that whatever affects one seriously interferes with the functions of the other. Not only health, but life itself, depends upon perfect harmony between the blood and skin. When, therefore, the blood becomes poisoned from any cause, it quickly manifests itself upon the skin in the form of sores and ulcers, pimples and various eruptive diseases. By the character of the sore we are enabled to determine the nature of the poison or humor in the blood, as every disease originating in the blood has its own peculiar sore or pimple. The skin is not only affected by the poisons generated in the system, but poisons from without enter through the open glands or pores and quickly infect the blood. Mercury rubbed upon the skin will produce Rheumatism, and Poison Oak and Ivy and other wild plants gain easy access to the blood through the skin. As so-called skin diseases originate in the blood, the application of powders, soaps and washes can do no permanent good, but often do immense damage by closing up the outlet to these little tubes and interfering with the natural action of the skin. The treatment must begin with the blood, and the acid or other poisons antidoted or neutralized. S. S. S. does this and purifies the circulation, builds up the blood and flushes the little glands or pores with pure, new blood, and restores healthy action to the skin. The use of cosmetics never yet brought health and beauty to a rough, red, pimply skin or sallow complexion. What is needed is rich, pure blood, such as S. S. S. makes. It not only relieves you of all disfiguring blackheads, blotches and irritating, itching eruptions, but improves your general health. S. S. S. contains no mercury, potash, arsenic or other mineral, but is a purely vegetable remedy and the safest and best in all blood and skin troubles. Write our physicians for advice or information; they have made a study of blood and skin diseases, and you can have the best medical advice without cost. Book on Blood and Skin Diseases free.

HORSES KNEW THE NOON HOUR

Pair of Animals That Stopped Abruptly When the Whistles Blew and Got Their Dinner.

A pair of intelligent horses attracted the attention of a large crowd on Nassau street at noon one day lately, says the New York Sun. They were attached to a heavily loaded ice wagon coming down the steep grade between Cedar street and Maiden lane, and were holding back the wagon with a noticeable effort. When they were half way down the whistles blew for 12 o'clock. Suddenly the horses drew in toward the curb and began to plant their hind feet forward to stop the wagon.

The driver made no effort to check them, and their hard work at once attracted notice. Pedestrians looked at the horses and then at the driver, who had a broad grin on his face. By hard work the wagon was stopped. The driver sat still and watched his animals. One of them immediately began rubbing his head against the neck of the other, and with nods and pushes succeeded in rubbing his turn at rubbing, and his bridle came off.

Fully 200 persons had watched this and when it was completed the driver got down from his seat and swung a bag of oats from over the nose of each animal. They stood there and ate their midday meal. The driver was patient and proud of his team. He petted them and talked to them, and when they were through drove off whistling.

"Talk about the laboring man dropping his shovel at the sound of the noon whistle," said one man, "that beats anything I ever saw. No one hereafter need try to convince me of the intelligence of the horse. That ice wagon team settles it."

MEN SIMPLY "COMPANIONS."

Business Girl's Clever Scheme to Do Away with the Attentions of Beau.

"Not more beaux; more companions," was the answer. "I know a business girl who has already set the ball going. She is a stenographer in a commercial house. A man friend of hers works in the same office and lives near her home in a suburban town. They get off from work at the same hour in the afternoon, and he always accompanies her home. But she stipulated that if he insisted upon going along she should pay her own car fare. He kicked at first, but is in fine training now."

"Does she give her nickel to the conductor and her escort give his?" asked a listener, according to the Louisville Courier-Journal.

"No. One afternoon he pays for both and the next day she pays for both. That's the way men do in accompanying each other, and the business girl believes that a woman earning her living ought to act toward men pretty much as men behave to each other in matters not connected with the proprieties of life."

Asked if she expected the new code to come in vogue in the near future, the secretary answered warily. It was practicable, soundly reasonable, and many women were on the lookout for inklings to improve their business status. But tradition was strong. It would take determination to break through customs that had become second nature.

WOMAN

IS LIKE A DELICATE
MUSICAL INSTRUMENT

In good condition she is sweet and lovable, and sings life's song on a joyful harmonious string. Out of order or unstrung, there is discordance and unhappiness. Just as there is one key note to all music so there is one key note to health. A woman might as well try to fly without wings as to feel well and look well while the organs that make her a woman are weak or diseased. She must be healthy inside or she can't be healthy outside. There are thousands of women suffering silently all over the country. Mistaken modesty urges their silence. While there is nothing more admirable than a modest woman, health is of the first importance. Every other consideration should give way before it. Bradfield's Female Regulator is a medicine for women's ills. It is the safest and quickest way to cure leucorrhea, falling of the womb, nervousness, headache, backache and general weakness. WINE OF CARDUI

A LITTLE DOES MUCH.

BOONE, Iowa, Dec. 14.
No tongue can tell what I have endured in the past ten years with my monthly sickness. While suffering untold agony, a friend called and recommended Wine of Cardui. I sent for a bottle, and Oh! what relief. After the first dose I began to feel better and have had no pain since.
MRS. GRACE LAMPHERE.

WINE of Cardui

Wine of Cardui not only cures but it acts AT ONCE. Here is a case of ten years' standing, and yet one single dose made the sufferer feel better, and stopped the pain. The Wine goes straight to the seat of the trouble. It acts directly upon the menstrual and genital organs. Its action is not violent, and it does not force a result. It simply gives Nature that little assistance that the sufferer's system lacks. A single disorder in the feminine organs spreads many disorders all over the body, and when the Wine cures the source, all the other ills vanish as a matter of course. A woman can be her own physician and cure herself at home. Local examinations are largely things of the past—the obnoxious custom is no longer necessary. Wine of Cardui is the only perfectly safe and sure vegetable Wine made to-day for the cure of "female troubles".

SATURDAY, JUNE 15.

PROF. HOLT ON NORTH CAROLINA FREEDOM.

In his address before the Teacher's Assembly Tuesday Prof. J. A. Holt, President of that body said:

I believe that with all your statistics there are no greater people than these North Carolinians. Much has been written and spoken recently about emancipating the white man in North Carolina politically, and there is something in it, but at the bottom no man ever saw North Carolina when its people were afraid to say and act as they thought. Were they afraid on the 20th of May, 1775? Didn't they take their time before going into "The compact called the Union," and did anybody dictate when they refused to go out in 1861? Were they afraid to impeach Holden? Were they afraid of Grant's bayonets in 1872, and Federal threats in 1876? Were they not acting as free men in 1894, when in their impatience on account of real and fancied wrongs they over turned the existing order of things? Could the demons of hell prevented the revolution in 1898? Did our people care for the threats of United States courts? The political revolutions in 1894 and 1896, and those of 1898 and 1900 show most conclusively that we have not been waiting for anybody or any act of public policy to unshackle North Carolina manhood.

We don't agree with Prof. Holt's conclusions that because of the different events he cites there is no cause for what has been said concerning the emancipation of the white man in North Carolina. There has never been any charge that our freedom of thought had been shackled and enslaved prior to the war, so that the events prior to that time do not do enter into the question at issue. Before that time there was no negro question in a local sense and there were two fairly well balanced parties, divided on economic or other questions, and composed entirely of white men. The events of construction may not properly be cited to prove that North Carolinians have not been in a condition of involuntary political slavery. The struggle ending with the complete overthrow of the reconstruction regime was social and racial rather than political. It was a struggle of the white race for the preservation of its homes, property and honor, and in this the white men stood together against the negro race and its ally, the United States government. There is no question of economic policy, no question of anything but self preservation, and no desire for a division. North Carolinians, have, we admit, been brave to act in times like these or in times when public peril from without threatened.

This brings us down to Prof. Holt's citations of the political battles of 1894, 1896, 1898, and 1900. Do they prove that there has been no political bondage in North Carolina. This naturally introduces the question as to exactly what this bondage complained of has been. It was simply that on account of the real or fancied danger of negro rule the white people of the State were not allowed, or did not allow themselves to divide upon any political question on its merits, but were forced to vote for measures which of times a great many of them did not believe in, for fear there would be a split and the negro would get in. It has not been a question of all the people rising in a given cause, or being impelled in the same movement as it has been of the minority or the individual having to go with the crowd against their will. It is individual freedom rather than mass freedom that has been asked for. It is now asked that a man may stand against the crowd if he conceives his position right, and not be ostracised or damned. This is the real question at issue, and Prof. Holt's argument really begs it entirely. The campaign of '96 was but a completion of '94, as that of 1900 was a completion of the work of 1898, these years may be spoken of as the "revolutions" of 1894 and 1898. Let us analyze these and see if they do not prove exactly opposite that which Prof. Holt thinks they prove.

In 1894 the Populist leaders carried off a large section of white voters from the Democratic party. They did so on economic grounds, but they did so only after they were enabled to make that section of the people believe that there was really no cause for danger from the negro and that the time had come when the white people could safely divide. To convince the people of this was the hardest task the leaders had, but when they had also succeeded in planting into the minds of their followers the bitterest hatred of the Democratic party. The only effective weapon that the Democratic party had was the claim that the State would be turned over to the negroes. It was turned over to them, but the Populist staid out of the party till they were reconverted to the belief in the danger of negro supremacy. They hated the Democratic party, and no other earthly thing could have driven them back into it. And those few who refused to come back to the belief that there was danger from negro supremacy, were they not despised and spat upon? Were they allowed to enjoy the liberty of their opinion and popular respect at the same time? Who will deny that the Populists were whipped and scourged back into the Democratic party in 1898 both because of the danger of the negro and by public sentiment of the hour. Who will deny that they went out in '94 till convinced that there was no danger, or that they went back in '98 largely against their will because they thought there was danger or because they could not withstand public censure? And if these things are true does it not prove that the white people of this State have been enslaved willingly, or unwillingly by the negro question? If any one wishes to prove that it has not been the effort and the desire of the politicians as a class that they should be enslaved by this idea as much as possible, we should like to see him do so.

The Board Meeting Last Night—Street Overseer Elected—City Wants to Trade Mules—Diggers of Holes Had Better Look Out.

The Board of Aldermen met last night with following members present, Ellington, Phipps, Glascock, Bain, Helms, Merrimon, Denny and Sergeant. The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved. Moved and carried that the city engineer stake out the street.

Mr. Jas. W. Forbis appeared before the Board and read the following resolution from the official Board of West Market Street church:

"Resolved that the Board of Aldermen be requested to spare the trees on West Market street in grading same."

He also read the following resolution signed by nine petitioners living on West Market street:

"We the undersigned citizens of Greensboro, N. C., residing and owning property on West Market street between Ashe and Edgeworth streets, respectfully petition your honorable body not to allow any street car line to be located on above named section of West Market street, and that you do not allow any grading to be done, or the trees or roots thereof on said section of said street to be in any manner injured."

It was moved that the resolutions be referred to the street committee. Carried.

Prof. Bandy made a few remarks on the work of grading the street mentioned in the petition.

Col. John Staples asked that the street committee permit him to address them before they took action on the resolutions.

Alderman Denny moved that applications for the position of street overseer be read, and that such an officer be elected. Applications were read from E. A. Cox and R. H. Smith.

Alderman Bain moved that the matter drawing up of the ordinance be left to the street committee and the city attorney. Carried.

Alderman Denny brought before the Board the matter of paving sidewalks, and after some discussion, the matter was postponed until the next meeting.

Alderman Sergeant moved that the city engineer be instructed to see what work was necessary to put in good condition South Elm street between the railway and the court house, and that the street committee ascertain if the property owners would not be willing to bear one-fourth of the necessary expense of putting said street in good condition.

Alderman Sergeant moved that the city attorney be authorized to proceed against the Southern Railway for their failure to put in a crossing on South Spring street. Carried.

A report from the Water and Light Commission was read showing that they had signed in duplicate, contracts with the Greensboro Electric Company. On motion duly made and seconded, the report was adopted and the contract ordered spread upon the minutes of the Board.

GOLD BRICKERS WANT THEIR BAIL REDUCED.

SAY THEIR BOND IS EXCESSIVE.

CHIEF JUSTICE FURCHES WILL HEAR THE CASE.

Hearing Set for Monday in Statesville—Gold Bricker's Attorney Says His Clients Will Fight to a Finish—Claimed They Would Stand Their Trial Even if Released on Bail.

A writ of habeas corpus has been sued out by the defendants, Howard, Hawley and Daley, in the gold brick case, returnable before Chief Justice Furches in Statesville next Monday. They claim that the amount of bail set by Judge Council is excessive and will be brought before the Chief Justice constitutional. The contention that the defendants damaged no one, that they secured no money, that conspiracy is merely a misdemeanor, and that the amount of bail is therefore excessive. It will be remembered that after the preliminary hearing, when the amount of bail was set at $3,000, a writ of habeas corpus was sued out, and was argued before Judge Starbuck in Winston, but as the Judge refused to alter the amount of bail.

One of the attorneys for the defendants, when seen by a Telegram reporter this morning, said that his clients intended to fight the case out, no matter how long it took. He also stated that his clients, even if they were bailed out, would not leave the city, but would stay here and stand their trial.

Without seeming to be skeptical, we have no doubt that no such skipping as this trio would do if released, has ever been done by even the swiftest of escaping bank defaulters.

Try Domestic Finish on Your Shirts.

It will save your linen, because there is not near the pressure to get a domestic as a gloss finish. We figure it will save linen wear 50 per cent. A gloss finish looks flashy, but it has not near the refinement of our dull domestic finish. That is why careful dressers in all large places have domestic finish on their linen.

Dick's Greensboro Steam Laundry,

PLAYED IT ON THE ELKS

An Actor Chap Shows an Elk Pin and Gets Assistance, But is Bowled Over by the Questioning of Exalted Ruler Wilson.

Charlotte Observer.

A couple registered at the Central Hotel yesterday morning as Mr. and Mrs. M. Meyer, of New York. Both were well-dressed. The man wore knickerbockers and had an actor-like face. He bought cigars, baths, drinks and patronized the hotel liberally. Happening to meet Mr. C. E. Hooper, the proprietor in the afternoon, he informed him that he was a stranded actor with no money at all and he wanted funds to get to Washington. He showed Mr. Hooper and Elk pin which he wore, and Mr. Hooper at once remitted the board bill.

An Elk in good standing who was in straits—that was the alleged condition of Meyer. Mr. Hooper sent for Mr. Hamilton W. Wilson, the exalted ruler of the Elks, and stated the case to him. Elks are Elks the world over, and Mr. Wilson consulted his check book and handed the result to Mr. Hooper to be given to Meyer. As an after thought Mr. Wilson decided it would be wise to find out if the man were really an Elk, as declared. So he found Meyer, got him in a dark corner and said a few words to him in Elkish Hebrew. Meyer blinked and couldn't say his lines. Mr. Wilson then turned a few official handsprings, but Meyer balked at the first jump. Mr. Wilson became suspicious, but rolled over on the floor, recited a one line stanza, stood on his head and did a few other Easy Things for the stranger, but Meyer said something about having a poor memory and didn't make the cat hop once. Whereupon he heard some plain unofficial speech from Mr. Wilson.

By telephoning it was found that Meyer had successfully played the Elk game at Salisbury and had worked a hotel there for board and money. His wife got on the train going north at 9:30 last night. No one saw Meyer board the train, though it is presumed that he got into one of the cars at the crossing. Mr. Wilson and other Elks believe that Meyer's scheme should be exposed. They resent the idea that anyone should hurlfully masquerade under the badge of Elksdom.

THE ALLIES IN CHINA.

What Do the Chinese Think of Their Collisions With One Another?

New York Evening Sun.

Since the landing of the allied forces in China there has been several encounters between the soldiers of the various nationalities. The latest event of this sort took place at Tientsin on Wednesday night when a lot of British-Indian and French troops had a set to which resulted in a casualty list of seven killed and wounded. It is said that there may be other encounters of this sort before the Europeans get out of that distressful country, and that even the legation guards left behind may amuse themselves when time hangs heavy on their hands by indulging in little feuds. All this is very interesting in view of the fact that a great deal of stress has been laid, at various times, on the good effect that the necessity for co-operation would have on the various nations concerned. Even the Kaiser referred to this in his speeches. In proposing the health of the French officers who were his guests at a review in Berlin the other day he expressed his gratification that French and Germans had served side by side in the cause of civilization in the far east. After all, that is only the sentimental way of looking at it. The officers of the various forces had to be civil to each other. Military regulations prescribed a line of conduct for them. They had to be punctilious in the matter of ceremonial politeness.

But it was different with the men. In spite of discipline they allowed their feelings to get the better of them and showed their hatred of some of their dear allies, at times with fatal results. It would be interesting to know what effect this has on the Chinese. There is a country in which officials can suppress news. But it is also a country in which news can be spread with amazing quickness when it is thought necessary. In view of dissensions that end in bloodshed it is hard to hold to their theory that the allies are of one mind and spirit. It would not be unfair to suppose that as the soldiers feel as do the nations that they represent. It also goes to show that you can't change human nature by sending a lot of discordant people on a military expedition.

A woman is "sweetly reasonable" when she is reasonable sweet.

Governor Invites Editors

News and Observer.

Governor Aycock has extended an invitation to the editors of the nation to meet in North Carolina next year. Yesterday the following telegram was sent to Senator London and Mr. H. E. Varner, Commissioner of Labor and Printing, who are attending the meeting of the National Editorial Association in Buffalo, N. Y., by Governor Aycock:

"Extend to the National Editorial Association a cordial and earnest invitation to hold its next annual meeting in the State of North Carolina."

If the editors come to the State it is expected they will meet in Asheville and then tour North Carolina on a special train.

Balloonist Injured.

Vernon, N. Y., June 11.—A balloonist named Stevens had a narrow escape from death this afternoon while making an ascension at Rye Beach on the Sound. The balloon descended on the roof of Thomas Edwards' hotel on Beach Hill. The balloonist got tangled in the parachute ropes and was dragged from the hotel roofing into a tree, whence he fell to the ground. His right leg was badly bruised and sprained, several ribs were injured and his arms were cut. The lightened balloon reascended and was captured out in the middle of Long Island Sound. The fall of the balloonist was witnessed by about three thousand persons who were on the beach.

Deadwoods Invitation.

Chicago, June 11.—President McKinley will receive on next Saturday a unique invitation to attend the carnival at Deadwood, S. D., beginning on July 3, which will celebrate the opening of the Black Hills reservation by white people twenty-five years ago. The invitation is engraved on a solid gold plate. Will S. Warner, of Deadwood, passed through Chicago today on his way to Washington, carrying the invitation. The celebration is expected to prove of great interest in the Western States. Vice President Roosevelt and Senator William B. Allison, of Iowa, have promised to attend.
